

At the cemetery: Resource Packet: Statistical Investigation Area 7

Southern Cemetery – Blocks 17A, 17B and 12.

Notes for Teachers about Area 7

This statistical investigation area includes some interesting headstones that indicate different events, occupations and life styles of the people who are buried here. People buried in this area represents mainly those who were less well off. There are also a number of events that include accidental death and war involvement that have claimed the lives of some of the people commemorated here. This small area represents a rich tapestry of human life in Dunedin's past.

What is of interest?

1. There are a number of headstones in this area that feature clasped hands. This symbol of separation and remembrance is a very common one in our historic cemeteries.
2. Evidence of war involvement includes commemorations on the Drennan memorial 17A/7 (Boer War) and the Swan memorial 12A/9
3. The Swan memorial also commemorates an accidental drowning in the family.
4. The Ing memorial is a chinese memorial. 12A/11

Instructions

Start with the Cruickshank memorial and work along Block 17A to the end. Come around the end of the block and work back along the other side 17B to the end. Turn around and work the next Block behind you – Block 12 in the same way. Finish with the Ing headstone at Plot 11.

STUDENT RECORDING SHEETS

The following pages are the student recording sheets for Area 7 Blocks 17A, 17B, and 12. Print one copy per group. Students write the name (they can use initials where they do not need to look up any further information on those listed on the inscription), date of death and age. Sometimes there is information given about date of birth and date of death and no age. Students can calculate age. Students need to list as many occupants as they can read.

Where you can read the name of the people listed and their details write them into your worksheet. Some headstones have lots of people listed so carefully check all sides of a gravestone. A number of headstones in this area have a surname only and will require a search of the Cemeteries database to find out date and age at death of people buried there.
